BEAUTIFUL CREATIONS SHOWN.

St. Louis Designers Are Setting the Pace for Originality and Attractiveness-List of Buyers Registered Yesterday.

Washington avenue was captured yesterday by the basts of visiting millipen, the stewards of that have thereught in from Pourth etreet to Twelch arrest being thronged with pretty Visitate who were making the rounds of the millions oneman of the various wholesale house

Notwitindanding the untraorable weather the openimal were a great stacces, and the creeds were much heavier than bott beeexpected. The display-rooms of the dis-ferent houses were perfect howers of beauty, but the rooms were entirely too. small to accommodate the thousands of visitors, and the crowds resembled regular bargain day or tire sale crushes.

Among the displays there were the striking French designs of the most celebrated Paristan men milliners. The latest effects from London, Brusseis, Antwerp and Vienna were displayed alongside of the artistic productions of the leading New York establishments, and the dainty creations of local milliners, who are gaining a well-deserved national reputation for their new and striking destant.

While the Parislan millions seem to have a broader conception and a more compren broader conception and a more compreheneive grass of the art of designing new flects in milliners and a more perfect interpretation of the nicotles of style, the time is past when they can dictate the fashions of the world, and American milliners are fast climbing to an artistic plane, where they will be able to set the pace for other nations to follow,

St. Louis Sets the Pace.

Formers are the pace was to be bad

Formerly, after the new styles had traveled from Paris to London and thence to New York, it took a whole year for them to reach the Western cities, but now St. Louis keeps right in line with New York and London, and her milliners are as well informed in regard to want is being done in Paris as those of any star. Loual policies not only seep buyers in New York, London and Paris to look out for anything new of meril, but they make a personal visit to the metopois several times a year to see that nothing has been a personal visit to the metropoits several times a year to see that nothing has been overlooked.

St. Louis milliners have passed the stage of mere dexteriny in shaping braids, llowers, fabrics and feathers into forms of beauty, copied after other people's designs, and are now arisists in their line, who are equal to the best. Imband of being content to copy, they now originate new arisis beautiful designs that milliners in the leading facilities of the world are gird to copy.

At each of the shewrooms, busy milliners flitted around with pencils and totalebooks is their hands, fouring down sow combinations and striking effects which took their fancy, and making memoranda of particulars in regard to pattern hate which they did not which to purchase, but desired to copy.

All of the local jobburs reported that, while they had expected to show goods yesterday, and not to soil them, the visitors insisted on buying pattern hats which pleased them, and sales were, consequently nearly. The number of striking styles shown was so great that if was impossible to make selections, but hats that roll from the face, trimmed in the pastel shades, appear to be the most popular.
